Chari Hawkins: Remember that name.

Paris D'Jon, in particular, was thrilled to welcome Chari to the agency, stating: "Every Olympic cycle a new, inspiring and talented athlete starts to bubble in popularity and then explodes onto the scene. We believe Chari is that talent."

Chari is not only a highly skilled athlete (with a host of awards under her belt) - but she's also got what it takes to inspire generations of younger athletes and sports fans across the country.

"Her on the track credentials speak for themselves. It's her off track personality, mentality and determination that will make her a household name in coming years", continues D'Jon, "Remember that name: Chari Hawkins".

In the past, New York based HPA Talent has secured a wide range of high-profile campaigns for their talent, including Adidas, RedBull, Nike, Frito-Lay, Target, Bank of America, Captain Morgan and Audi to name. Since stepping into the "business" of Chari Hawkins, D'Jon notes that they receive multiple daily requests and offers, which are only getting larger. This is hardly surprising when you consider her talent on (and off) the track!

Chari is also thrilled about this partnership, stating, "Talking to Paris was like speaking to your inner self: the part of yourself that says you can do anything. He recognizes that I am more than an athlete and understands my aspirations on and off the track. His experience provides me with the confidence to focus on track, while letting him be the catalyst to accelerate my career and enable my full potential."

From being a 5X Collegiate All American, Female Sportsman of the Year, and 6X USA athlete - all while building a community and inspiring others to follow their dreams - it's clear the best is yet to come!
