

TalentXi Inks Sponsored Job Patent License

TalentXi entered into a licensing partnership with a leading insurance company that will help increase its qualified candidate talent pool.

UNITED STATES, December 13, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- December 13st, 2022: In a statement

released today, TalentXi revealed that it had issued a non-exclusive license authorizing the use of its integrated online job recruitment system to a leading insurance company that will help increase its qualified candidate talent pool.

Built and patented in 2005, TalentXi's proprietary software is the first-of-its-kind job recruitment technology that combines a job search engine with sponsored job posts to get jobs in front of the right candidates at the right time.

The company's software provides organizations with technical insights, expertise, and innovation that strengthens their talent acquisition strategies, while also boosting the capabilities of their in-house teams.

TalentXi has reaffirmed its commitment to making recruitment easier, faster, and better for everyone by making its patented technology available to other companies through licensing partnerships. Driven to create valuable partnerships that will advance the growth of the sponsored job recruitment space, TalentXi is strongly encouraging companies utilizing its technology to take advantage of the co-licensing opportunities so they can use its software to strengthen their talent acquisition strategies.
