conferences and digital educational initiatives. Realizing the growing need to provide educational content and mentorship specifically for this community, FRED developed PA/NP Emerge. □□

PA/NP Emerge will support healthcare professionals by providing a video-based curriculum designed by a steering committee of leading PAs and NPs in the field. New content will be released monthly and will include up-to-date information, tips, and pearls.

Some of the topics include:

- Patient advocacy□□
- Practice management□□
- Office dynamics□□
- Career development
- Medical dermatology
- Aesthetics□
- Personal development□□
- Job selection and interview skills□

- Industry relationships

"This site offers educational content that will help patients immediately. The material shown here will be valuable to anyone taking care of dermatology patients," said Mark Lebwohl, MD, Dean for Clinical Therapeutics and Waldman Professor and Chairman at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, New York, NY, and Co-director of the Foundation for Research and Education in Dermatology.

Nina Copeland, APN, FNP-C, a member of the PA/NP Emerge Steering Committee noted, "The PA/NP Emerge website is going to be a go-to resource for my fellow dermatology NP and PA colleagues. The education and support provided is invaluable to our profession. New content will be updated on a regular basis making it a great place to stay current in the ever-evolving specialty of dermatology."

The PA/NP Emerge program is available for NPs and PAs as a support tool and resource that will aid this community in providing the highest quality of care to patients. Visit panpemerge.com to learn more.

PA/NP Emerge is supported by Bristol Myers Squibb, who is committed to advancing the careers of PAs and NPs in the field of dermatology.
