

Top Rated Jet Charter Brokerage New Flight Charters Announces Third Year of Free De-Icing

The most-accredited jet charter brokerage in the U.S., is again covering de-icing and hangar charges for its client's flights this winter.

DENVER, COLORADO, USA, December 14, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In addition to the charter industry's only Best Price Guarantee, New Flight Charters has added for the third straight winter season, no-charge de-icing, as needed for any trip.

By comparison, other on-demand charter companies and some jet card or membership programs invoice their customer for any de-icing or hangar fees. And in other provider programs, de-icing costs are built into hourly rates, increasing customer costs whether de-icing is needed or not.

What Does Private Jet De-Icing Cost?

A typical light jet de-icing averages around $1,500, midsize and larger charter jets range up to around $6,000 and more in some cases. De-icing costs depend on several factors including the aircraft size, the airport's fees, and how much de-icing fluid is required for the conditions.

New Flight Charters clients feel confident seeing their plane get de-iced and knowing it's no cost to them. No add-ons to overall charter pricing, costs are covered from a company reserve used to support and serve clients.

New Flight Charters Announces Free De-Icing for the Third Year for its Private Jet Charters

Custom private jet charters, empty legs, floating fleets, since 2004.

Service level is a priority. In on-demand charter we are only as good as our last trip, so we care greatly about every single charter experience, beginning to end.”

Rick Colson, New Flight Charters president

Covering de-icing costs for clients is an added benefit to the company’s Best Price Guarantee, in place since 2009. The company guarantees the best cost/quote for any trip and type/size aircraft and will beat any charter broker or operator qualified quote.

“Our flights and experiences should be seamless from beginning to end, and no one wants to get an additional invoice after their trip,” commented Rick Colson, New Flight Charters’ president. “Service level is a priority. In on-demand charter we are only as good as our last trip, so we care greatly about every single charter experience, beginning to end. Our charter managers are some of the most experienced in the industry.”

Flyers review an array of best available options for each flight according to their preferences. Quotes are total all-included and price-guaranteed. No membership fees, commitments, buy-ins, or invoices after the trip.

Aircraft options for each trip, including discounted floating fleet options and empty legs nationwide, are from the full industry of 3,596 charter jets in the U.S.
