Find the ideal plot, then choose one of the many designs of park homes to create the perfect space. Each park home is made by leading manufacturers, so there is peace of mind knowing that your park home comes complete with a solid warranty.

To top it all off, with woodland walks and countryside on the doorstep, pets are welcome too. - so why wait any longer to start living the dream?

What is a Park Home?

It can be hard to tell the difference between a standard residential bungalow and a park home from the outside. Both kinds of properties offer plenty of living space and attractive living options. Park homes have become increasingly popular and offer almost the same features as that of a traditional bungalow. This includes central heating, proper insulation, energy-efficient boilers and double glazing - all of which comply with eco-friendly regulations.

Park homes are detached and situated on individual plots known as pitches, located in private estates that may or may not be gated. Park home estates create an ideal community vibe while also providing added security - plus they often boast beautiful amenities like access to green spaces, swimming pools and even golf courses! If you're looking for park homes for sale in Berkshire that offer both the privacy of a house and the attractive benefits of gated communal living, then a park home could be the perfect fit.
