Spartan’s Special Situations Group (SSG) provides prominent families, high-net-worth individuals, and institutions access to multi-strategy public and private direct investments in place of third-party managers. SSG’s investment horizon spans from short duration investments targeting high IRRs, to long duration private equity style investments targeting high multiples of invested capital. The goal is to maximize returns through exposure to a handful of the most compelling investment opportunities, in a concentrated portfolio that is non-discretionary. We believe that a Special Situation investment account combined with a traditional diversified portfolio is necessary for high-net-worth individuals to maximize returns.

Spartan Capital Securities’ Founder and CEO, John Lowry commented: “As we welcome John to the Spartan Capital team and continue to build into the new year, I am reminded that associates are the key building blocks of our business and the future of our financial industry.”
