“Unfortunately, excellent grades and top-notch test scores are insufficient to win admission to many of the best universities today. Effective and successful college planning demands years of admissions work which, unfortunately, too many parents leave until it is too late. Today, all of the strongest applicants to university must combine stellar scores with a stand-out submission that elevates them to the very top of a pile of thousands of applications. Each student's essay, personal statement and transcripts need to be remarkable. Good grades are just the beginning.”

Building on the success of Ethan Putterman's almost three decades as a university professor and independent educational consultant, Putterman highlights the importance of a winning solution that goes beyond traditional models of online SAT and ACT test preparation today.

"Seeking to go beyond traditional SAT and ACT test preparation, Aventura Tutors will offer a free college application review to every applicant that signs up for 10 of our two-hour online test preparation sessions. Unlike test preparation services which offer free diagnostic testing merely, our associates will review the grades, personal statements, college essays, transcripts and additional supporting materials of each applicant. Our goal is to give every student a fair chance at admission to an Ivy League university; success at realising their dreams. I will personally consult with each student on the weaknesses of his or her college application and what may be done to strengthen it. For an additional fee, I will work with them to improve and enhance their submission to perfection."

Advising universities and schools across Florida and the southern United States on how to enhance their educational curriculums, as well as serving students who are experiencing difficulties during their first years of college, Ethan Putterman adds Aventura Tutors to the burgeoning portfolio of his independent consultancy in 2023.
