Industry Definition and Major Segments

Various culinary products commonly employ vegetable oil in order to add flavour and texture. ### Market Trends

The latest increase in the oilseed price index mainly reflected higher values of soybean, sunflower seed, and rapeseed. International soybean prices rose in November, chiefly underpinned by concerns over adverse weather conditions in pockets of major growing regions in South America. In particular, severely delayed planting progress due to protracted dryness across soybean sowing areas in Argentina have cast a shadow over the country's production prospects.

Regarding vegetable oils, the modest rise in the growth index is mostly attributable to rising global palm and soy oil prices, which more than offset falling rapeseed and sunflower oil quotations. Along with worries regarding lower production potentials because of heavy rainfall in some main growing locations, worldwide import demand has been resurgent due to competitive prices compared to those of other edible oils.

Key Market Players

The major players in the market are:

- Archer Daniels Midland Company
- Bunge Limited, Cargill Incorporated
- Louis Dreyfus Company
- Aceitera General Deheza S.A
- Others
