Time and time again, podcasters find when interviewing guests, they are faced with removing audio interruptions like a phone ringing or plane flying in the middle of their broadcast. There also could be something that might not be intended for their audience that may slip out during the conversation. Whatever the case, most of the time, there is editing that needs to be done. According to Portik, "There needs to be a branded intro and ending as well as sponsored commercials, all of which are time consuming and take away from a podcasters main goal of creating informative and interesting content on a consistent basis."

With this in mind, BVS Film Productions has launched its new division "Premiere Podcast Productions." The new division not only edits podcasts, but also helps elevate them to the next level though video, audio enhancements and content marketing.
