Drivers and Restraints:

Chronic orthopedic diseases such as arthritis and bursitis affect the MSK system- most often the bones or joints. They can cause pain and dysfunction, making normal daily activities difficult. These conditions are different from orthopedic injuries, such as a dislocated shoulder or broken bone, which are often caused by sudden trauma. Unlike accidental or traumatic orthopedic injuries, chronic conditions are usually progressive, starting slowly and worsening or developing over time. They may be genetic or age-related, or they may be caused by overuse.

Some orthopedic conditions are treatable and some cannot be cured at this time but can be treated to reduce pain and improve quality of life. Accurate diagnosis and targeted treatment can help reduce problems even in progressive conditions without treatment. Treatment recommendations depend on the type and severity of your condition. Treatments range from RICE (Rest, Ice, Compression and Elevation) to major surgery.

Market Opportunities:

In addition to outlining the reasons that have driven and will continue to fuel the industry's growth, the research looks at some of the major market prospects. It takes into account past growth patterns, growth factors, and present and upcoming trends.

Telemedicine provides patients with cost-effective, quality care. Previsit planning allows appropriate implementation of telemedicine, which ensures that the patients and physicians be provided with functional telemedicine equipment. Physicians for the treatment of MSK diseases perform a structured MSK examination via telemedicine. The use of common household items enables physicians to replicate in-person clinical examination maneuvers. Home care instructions and online rehabilitation provide initial management of treatment.
