Scott Becker, founder of Becker's Healthcare has been chosen as a winner of the “Healthcare Leader of the Year Awards 2022”, in the "Healthcare Executive Leader" category. The American College of Healthcare Trustees

Healthcare Leader of the Year Awards were created to recognize individuals in the healthcare industry who are truly making healthcare better for everyone involved.

“Mr. Becker has provided a platform where reporters can share breaking news with the medical community,” said Dr. David Levien, MD, President and CEO of the American College of Healthcare Trustees.

Winners of this prestigious award will be recognized at the American College of Healthcare Leaders' annual 2-day Conference at Daytona State College, May 19-20, 2023. The conference theme is The Fourth Industrial Revolution in Healthcare including VR/AR, web3, use of the metaverse, and genomics. Keynote speakers will present ways to utilize these emerging technologies to improve patient care, provide healthcare in underserved communities, and improve the overall governance and ethics in healthcare worldwide.

The American College of Healthcare Trustees is a professional association dedicated to promoting good governance and leadership in the healthcare sector by providing continuing education, resources, and networking to help healthcare leaders and trustees govern more effectively.
