As per The Business Research Company's "Supermarkets And Hypermarkets Global Market Report 2022", the supermarkets and hypermarkets market is predicted to reach a value of $3.11 trillion in 2022 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 9.8%. The Russia-Ukraine war disrupted the chances of global economic recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic, at least in the short term. The war between these two countries has led to economic sanctions on multiple countries, surge in commodity prices, and supply chain disruptions, effecting many markets across the globe. The supermarkets and hypermarkets market is expected to grow to $3.96 trillion in 2026 at a CAGR of 6.2%. Supermarkets and hypermarkets are adopting a robust and cohesive strategy for data analytics in management. This is expected to drive the market going forward.

Key Trends In The Supermarkets And Hypermarkets Market

Supermarkets and hypermarkets are increasingly using blockchain technology to track product details such as source, manufacturing location, transportation modes. Blockchain technology can be described as a data structure that holds transactional records and ensures security, transparency, and decentralization. Due to rising awareness about healthy eating, shoppers are actively looking for the origin and methods of food production to understand the entire food supply chain. Food quality. Blockchain technology enables users to access labelling information on smartphones, giving the user in-depth tracking of data that ensures food quality. For instance, in September 2019, Walmart launched the Walmart Food Traceability initiative that allows users to trace fresh, leafy produce from farm to table in real-time using the IBM Food Trust Network.
