Christopher's Interdisciplinary Approach to Art

Christopher Fernandez has a style that is characterized by complexity and simplicity at the same time. His work is interdisciplinary, not limited to just one type. With his influences and educational background, he's destined to become one of the central Philippine purveyors of social realism. Over the last seven years, he has participated in numerous art exhibitions, allowing his creative methods to grow and develop.

From 2006 to 2011, Christopher attended Manuel S. Enverga University Foundation in Quezon Province. The experience helped Christopher refine his skills and clarify his creative eye. He encourages students to achieve accomplishment and diversity through personal and professional endeavors. The opportunity presented itself to Christopher, and he took advantage of it. Christopher believes that by exploring the diverse ideas, skills, and backgrounds that define the world's art scene, art can serve as a tool for gaining a better understanding of the world.

The Vision Behind Christopher's Art Work

By applying social realist principles to his compositions, Christopher illustrates the struggles of the modern working class in contrast to the convenient lifestyles those in power enjoy. Compared to the ruinous social injustice it is inspired by, his work stands poised and dignified. As a means of coping with systemic inequality that would otherwise be unmanageable, Christopher's art offers individuals the opportunity to modify their sense of calm to tolerate systemic disparities. Christopher produces every piece with this noble intention.

Besides its social realist conventions, Christopher's work is topical because of its pride in Philippine history. It showcases the diversity of Philippine life. The natural lighting of his work harmonizes with his expressive style, smoothly engaging the viewer. His understanding of the medium creates an atmosphere of magic. His aesthetic balance reflects the emotional resonance he aims for, and there are no undesirable textures. Furthermore, he shows how complicated these dualities can be. There is a balance between social commentary and the inherent beauty in his work.
