In launching Luxury Living Music, Kirb bought out a former business partner, and composer, with whom he owned half of Supply & Demand Worldwide Publishing. This acquisition, and launch of his subsequent business, now gives Luxury Living Music sole ownership of Supply & Demand Worldwide Publishing's catalog.

Luxury Living Music currently owns rights to 100% of the compositions, and 50% of the full songs, for a number of major artists. They include Stitches, with whom Kirb worked closely to produce and market his mega-hit single "Brick In Yo Face," which was featured on Comedy Central's "South Park," as well as other songs. Other artists included in the catalog are Kevin Gates, Offset, Lil Boosie, Mistah Fab, Compton Menace, The Ying Yang Twins, and a multitude of other upcoming superstars.

Even with an already impressive catalog at Luxury Living Music's launch, Kirb has no plans to stop when it comes to growing his company's influence and assets.

"Since I was 14, I've been tenaciously pursuing my passion for the music industry, and it's exciting to now be able to announce my latest endeavor, Luxury Living Music," said Kirb. "Though the company just launched, I'm eager to grow its holdings by aggressively purchasing music and adding writers and composers to our roster."
