Trending Payer Services Market Trend

Increased adoption of technologically advanced products is gaining substantial popularity in the payer services market. This has led to improved price transparency, affordable payer services, higher utilization of resources, increasing quality reach, and member satisfaction and loyalty towards the service provider. For instance, in January 2022, Jopari, a US-based customer-focused health information technology company supplying advanced medical EDI solutions to payers, launched an All-Payer Attachments model. This is a cost-effective solution that allows a standardized, efficient, and compliant approach that enables providers to deliver electronic Attachments to All Payers, regardless of the payer's preference for electronic or paper submission. This has led to greater transparency and economical alternative for payers.
