"Demand for cold-pressed juice made from 100% USDA certified organic mixed fruits and vegetables has been increasing significantly," says the upbeat Kelley Sibley, Bamboo's CEO, "owing to growing concerns regarding various health issues and the health benefits of consuming these juices."

Bamboo is a cold pressed juice company that utilizes 100% USDA certified organic ingredients and the highest quality products to create the healthiest small batched, hand bottled juices. Each juice, almond milk and elixir shot is more than a drink. It is a health tonic.

"Today, health-conscious women and men are beginning to capitalize on the benefits by consuming juices on a regular basis. We like to compare juicing to working out. To really gain the optimum health benefits, it is recommended that people juice daily," Sibley adds.
