

Mortar Group, a New York-based Real-Estate Development Firm, announced its Architect as Developer internship position

BROOKLYN, NEW YORK, US, January 6, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Mortar Group, a New York-based Real-Estate Development Firm, announced its Architect as Developer internship position for Fall 2023, and plans to hire intern candidates with an Architectural background who are interested in learning more about Real Estate Development.

A blended experience in both Architecture and Development can help build a strategy for future architectural and financial independence by creating the framework on how to develop your own projects and become your own client. This opportunity will provide a motivated self-starter an experience often ignored by architecture schools and traditional work environments. It is an opportunity for an architect to experience all phases of a development project - from selecting a site, underwriting, marketing and asset management.

I'm excited to offer this opportunity to young architects, in hopes it can act as a springboard to financial independence - teaching how to eliminate traditional clients, and develop your own projects”
