Tour guide provider Safarisource has partnered with Rene to provide travelers with an even more seamless and secure African travel experience.

Health and safety concerns make many people reluctant to travel outside their home country, especially after the pandemic. Rene and Safarisource's new partnership allows tourists to schedule tours, find guides and seek medical care in one place.

This partnership is part of Safarisource's dedication to boosting Africa's tourism industry and making trips as fun and safe as possible. Travelers already count on Safarisource for attentive care and personalized tours that help them make the most out of their experience. Now, travelers can rely on Safarisource and Rene's partnership to track travel restrictions, find appropriate travel health insurance and receive medical or travel assistance.

Adventurers can access Rene through a Safarisource branded mobile app. Once Safarisource schedules the itinerary, Rene's algorithm recommends the perfect insurance policy, providing comprehensive coverage with an easy-to-use interface. As a result, clients can save precious time they would've otherwise spent searching for help in an unfamiliar area. Rene also provides real-time updates during the trip so that clients stay on top of travel advisories, alerts, and safety news.
