

JazzJune CEO Featured on WCCO TV for Creating World's First Online Course Entirely Using Artificial Intelligence

Twin Cities news channel covers EdTech startup on their pursuit for better online learning.

BLOOMINGTON, MN, USA, January 10, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CEO & Founder of JazzJune, a free platform with tools to create and share learning content, has been featured on WCCO News in the Minneapolis/St. Paul area for developing the world's first course entirely using Artificial Intelligence.

"Being featured in my hometown is an honor, and I'm so excited to share the possibilities of AI in education," said Alex Londo, CEO & Founder of JazzJune. "I think there is a lot of fear and apprehension about how much AI is going to shape the world. But harnessing this tool now keeps us out in front of it," Londo continued.

Alex Londo is interviewed by reporter Derek James about AI and its influence on education.

About JazzJune

JazzJune is a free social learning platform that provides digital tools to help easily create and share learning content such as courses, groups and more. JazzJune was founded by a team with 30 years of combined experience in eLearning design and communications who were frustrated with expensive and complicated learning management systems. They believed they could develop an easier and more effective way to create and share learning content.
