BENGALURU, KARNATAKA, INDIA, January 11, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Things have changed a lot in the last couple of decades in India. The country is going through the golden age of technological boom, expanding cities to new heights. In all of this, traditional and time-consuming cleaning practices are not suitable anymore. The point in time when TechSquadTeam came up with a solution that combined technology and services distribution models amazingly, for all kinds of household services. From deep house cleaning to pest control and commercial cleaning, Techsquadteam has now become the company to go to in 13 cities across India.

How does it all work out? By extending its network to 13 cities, TechSquadteam is now reaching more customers and people can now take advantage of the company's house cleaning, pest control, and commercial cleaning services. Their appointment process is too simple and people can make an appointment through their website itself. Techsquadteam, professionals would be sent to their home, and they would have to sign the cheque, and the home will have a new and clean look.

Now, this is revolutionary. Combining technology to upgrade the cleaning services sector is surely something new.

Another major advantage, the services offered by the company are centered around what someone living in a mega city would like to have. House cleaning, pest control, air conditioner installation and maintenance, plumbing, electrical system maintenance, etc are some of the major services provided by the company.

The services initially started in Bangalore, where Techsquadteam began all of its operations.

Long story short, the response was overwhelming; more and more people got interested and wanted to try out the service packages offered by the company. The response was so overwhelming that it led to Techsquadteam finally deciding to expand the area where these services were offered, marking 13 cities across India. These cities include Bangalore, Bokaro, Chennai, Dhanbad, Hyderabad, Jamshedpur, Kanpur, Kolkata, Lucknow, Mumbai, Pune, Ranchi, and Bhubaneswar.

The growth shown by the company is a wonder indeed, especially when the market is so saturated and competitive already. But this growth is all organic, with reviews built on the quality service provided by Techsquadteam. Now that is something we don't see very often in today's competitive business world.

Techsquadteam officials are very vocal regarding the company and its operations. With each milestone achieved, the company's spokesperson thoroughly briefed the public and shareholders regarding their progress and plans. This stabilized the company's financials once it started to expand throughout India.

Techsquadteam has a striking new growth pattern and there is not any prominent signal that may suggest that the company is thinking about taking it slow with the growth further down in near future. Quality household and commercial services for people throughout India are what Techsquadteam believes in.

And a special note for all the professionals working under the banner of Techsquadteam. The company regards them as the most valuable assets and designs their pay and bonus packages accordingly.
