

Gainsight Earns #1 Spot on Glassdoor's Best Places to Work List for 2023

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, USA, January 11, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gainsight, the platform for Durable Growth™, has placed first overall on the Glassdoor Best Places to Work list for 2023. An Employees' Choice Award, Glassdoor's list is based solely on the input of employees who voluntarily provide anonymous feedback by completing a company review about their job, work environment and employer on Glassdoor. Gainsight has over 400 reviews on Glassdoor and a 4.8 rating overall. Ninety-nine percent of the reviewers approve of CEO Nick Mehta and 96% would recommend Gainsight to a friend.

"I'd normally say 'I'm humbled to...' but being real, this is freaking awesome," said Mehta. It's awesome because it's a sign of the dedication and belief our 1200+ Gainsters have in Human-First Business. I couldn't be more grateful to work with these incredible humans."

Gainsight's human-first approach is reflected in its value statements. This mindset, along with numerous programs and opportunities designed to foster employee health and growth, have helped Gainsight earn the trust and confidence of team members in the U.S., Europe, Canada, India, Israel, and Japan.

"Gainsight's purpose is to be a human-first company and they actually mean it - starting with Nick, the CEO, and trickling down to everyone else in the organization," said a Customer Success Manager from Gainsight on the Glassdoor website in December. "This was the most important thing to me when looking for my next career move, and I'm so happy to say that they aren't just words in a mission statement but they are actually embodied by the whole company."

"The past year brought extreme highs and lows for job seekers and employees, but despite an increasingly uncertain job market, Glassdoor data shows there are still companies hyper-focused on creating outstanding employee experiences,”said Christian Sutherland-Wong, Glassdoor Chief Executive Officer. “It’s encouraging to see companies doubling down on employee mental health and wellbeing, diversity and inclusion, competitive benefits and flexible work environments as we head into 2023. I sincerely congratulate all of the Best Places to Work winners.”

On Glassdoor, current and former employees voluntarily and anonymously share insights and opinions about their work environments by sharing a company review, designed to capture a genuine and authentic inside look at what a specific job may be like at a particular company. When sharing a company review on Glassdoor, employees are asked to rate their satisfaction with the company overall, and key workplace factors like career opportunities, compensation and benefits, culture and values, senior management, diversity and inclusion, and work/life balance. In addition, employees are asked to describe the best reasons to work at their companies as well as any downsides.

Glassdoor’s Best Places to Work winners were determined using company reviews shared by U.S.-based employees between October 19, 2021 and October 17, 2022. During the year-long eligibility period, employers considered for the large list must have received at least 75 ratings for each of Glassdoor’s nine workplace attributes (overall company rating, career opportunities, compensation and benefits, culture and values, diversity and inclusion, senior management, work-life balance, recommend to a friend and six-month business outlook). The final list is compiled using Glassdoor’s proprietary algorithm, led by its Economic Research Team, and considers quantity, quality and consistency of reviews.
