Now, as they prepare to move into their eighth year in business, the company is excited to have reached a major milestone of 1,000 customers.

In recent years, digital marketing has become an essential requirement for businesses of all sizes. From small one-man startups to large global corporations, developing a clear and concise presence online is crucial to not only retaining existing customers but expanding their reach and maximising their sales.

Having been working in the world of digital marketing for 15 years, in 2015, Eddy Andrews decided to go it alone with the launch of his own digital agency. When Eddy launched the company, he had one primary goal in mind, to provide customers with the highest quality marketing solutions specifically designed to help small and mid-sized businesses grow.

The agency works with businesses from every sector, and over the past seven years, they have helped everyone from service-based companies to eCommerce stores. No matter the industry,
