IndustryARC, in its latest report, predicts that Organic Bread Flour Market size is forecast to reach $887.9 million by 2027, growing at a CAGR of 6.9% during the forecast period 2022-2027. Organic bread flour is a type of flour milled from wheat that is grown and processed without using harmful synthetic fertilizers and pest control chemicals. Moreover, organic wheat farmers also undertake innovative crop rotation practices in order to minimize the risk of pests and plant diseases. Moreover, only natural preservatives can be used during processing in order for the flour to be certified as organic by an independent agency. Some of the most common kinds of organic bread flour include wholegrain and sprouted grains. Organic bread flours are primarily used for baking goods such as pastries, biscuits, or scones. Organic flour along with a leavening agent such as yeast enables bakers to produce puff pastry items. This is because yeast baking causes the dough to rise owing to carbon dioxide gas produced by it during the baking process.
