This is great news for individuals and families who have been on the fence about signing up for quality and affordable health insurance in Plano. Signed into law in 2010, the ACA provides cheaper insurance while also expanding access to Medicaid and supporting new medical delivery methods meant to lower the cost of healthcare. Word has quickly spread, with more than 35 million Americans already enrolled. What's important to know with the latest enrollment is that the state you live in determines which providers people can use if they qualify. Everything is broken down into four tiers — Bronze, Silver, Gold, and Platinum, with each plan offering a unique cost breakdown ranging from lower monthly premiums and higher deductibles to high premiums and low out-of-pocket deductibles. This gives Americans the options they need to make the right choice for them and their families.

Rick Thornton, a Plano health insurance agent, said premiums are based on income. Therefore, premiums could still cost less if you have low income. Also, individuals under the age of 30 or have an exemption based on inability to afford health insurance can qualify for a Catastrophic plan featuring low monthly premiums and high deductibles.
