NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, January 16, 2023
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Drivers of Market Growth

The plant growth modifier market is expected to experience strong growth over the next several years due to a number of driving factors. Increasing demand for food production and the need to develop higher-yielding crops has led to increased adoption of plant growth modifiers. As population continues to grow, farmers are looking for modern solutions that can increase crop yields while also improving the health of their soil.

In addition, government initiatives and investments in research & development are increasing awareness about plant growth modifiers and their benefits. Governments around the world are increasingly encouraging farmers to use plant growth modifiers in an effort to improve productivity and reduce environmental impacts associated with farming practices. Furthermore, technological advancements such as robotic systems have enabled better implementation of these products on large farms, further boosting market demand.

Global Industry Analysis

The global plant growth modifier market is expected to witness a healthy CAGR of 8.6% from 2019 to 2026. This growth is driven by the increasing demand for high-yielding agricultural products and the growing acceptance of biopesticides in developing countries. Additionally, factors like government policies towards agrochemical use, technological advancements related to plant growth modifiers, and the rising popularity of organic farming are further propelling the market's growth.

The Asia-Pacific region has emerged as one of the leading regional markets for plant growth modifiers due to its wide availability of raw materials used in production and its large population base that caters to increased demand for agricultural products. Moreover, a rise in disposable incomes along with an increase in R&D investments by various governments has been bolstering the regional market's expansion at a rapid rate.
