"Many people can't afford to attend live events generally, but on top of that there are those specifically going through difficult times beyond their control, like loss of life or abandonment or suffered a trauma they can't shake away. We want to help our community bring the gift of live entertainment to warm hearts and elevate souls" said Darcy Silver, CEO of LuvSeats. "We would like everyone's involvement and assistance; whether is donating money or tickets; nominating someone in the community and sharing their story; or volunteering and partnering to make these magical memories come alive. Go to LuvSeatsFoudantion.com and get involved today, and help us build a brighter future!"

" One of the best aspects of live entertainment is seeing the pure joy on the faces of fans." said All Elite Wrestling (AEW) Ring Announcer Justin Roberts who joins The LuvSeats Foundation board, "I am thrilled to combine my passion for live events along with introducing this world to those who have not been able to experience seeing their favorite athletes or artists in person. All it takes is one amazing live event experience to make a life changing moment.
