Lee-Ann's Shewchuk

Lee-Ann prides herself in forming singles that are in line with the musical vision that the artists bring to her. In doing so, she delves herself into the musical production process in hopes of providing the singers with the perfect rhyme and rhythm to bring their specific musical ideal to light. Perhaps, the lyricist's most endearing quality is to continue to find the most innovative and exciting string of words to continue to create a beautiful and touching artistic song.

The writer's first song "But I Know One Thing For Sure" was quite the musical hit, gaining traction amongst the loyal fans of the Paramount Group production house. This was a simple single on the pressure on young men to settle down which touched many young fellows going through the same life phase. Apart from this more than welcome first musical hit "It's How You Live Your Life", "Let's Make A Pact", and "Too Young To Grow Up" all embodied a sense of deep thoughtfulness and creativity that singles seldom do these days. Each single is imbued with themes from Lee-Ann's personal life and thus provides a unique insight into her world.
