

Freeze-Dried Foods Global Market | Industry to Surpass US $51.8 billion By 2027

Freeze-dried food products are in high demand in a few sectors, including bakery products, cereal products, fruit snacks, and vegetable snacks, to name a few.

HYDERABAD, TELANGANA, INDIA, January 18, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IndustryARC, in its latest report, predicts that Freeze-Dried Foods Global Market Size is estimated to reach $51.8 billion by 2027.

Furthermore, it is poised to grow at a CAGR of 8.8% over the forecast period of 2022-2027. Food preservation by freeze-drying is a relatively new technique. It includes freezing the food, then using a vacuum chamber to remove almost all of the moisture, and then sealing the food in an airtight container. Foods that have been freeze-dried can be easily transported at room temperature, preserved for a long time, and consumed with minimal preparation. The global demand for food preservation is propelling the freeze-dried food industry forward. Meat, fish, herbs and food flavorings, fruits and vegetables, coffee, and eggs, among other foods, are freeze-dried to extend their shelf life and preserve vitamins and minerals that are vital to human health. Furthermore, owing to freeze-dried food having gone through the dehydration process, it is largely contamination-free, can be easily transported at normal temperatures, and can be consumed with minimal preparation.
