With increasing water scarcity worldwide, soap and other detergent manufacturers are working continuously on creating opportunities for water-efficient soaps and laundry products. These water-efficient soaps and laundry products require less water for rinsing as these concentrated detergents contain chemicals with fewer water-dependent soap and laundry ingredients. Furthermore, these products also cut down on packaging and transportation costs for the manufacturers. In February 2022, the Turkmen company "Tyach Khil" commenced the production of water-saving liquid hand soaps that reduce water consumption by 30% compared
