adjuvants. The market is also expanding as a result of greater emphasis on improved crop protection chemical efficiency in a variety of climatic situations, necessitating the need for advancements in the adjuvants used in them. Consumers are gradually shifting toward organically produced goods. As a result, businesses are concentrating on the development of bio-based eco-friendly adjuvants such as organo-modified siloxanes, modified vegetable oils, and methylated seed oil, among others. As a result, the need for green adjuvant is projected to increase in the
