HYDERABAD, TELANGANA, INDIA, January 19, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IndustryARC, in its latest report, predicts that Global Organic Infant Formula Market size is estimated to reach $7.2 billion by 2027, growing at a CAGR of 8.9% during the forecast period 2022-2027. Organic infant formula can be described as synthetic nutritious food prepared for babies less than 12 months to substitute breast milk. As compared to conventional formula, it is prepared from more natural ingredients such as soy products and dairy milk which are free from chemicals, pesticides, and hormones. In addition to that, protein hydrolysate is also used in infant formula as it helps in blood pressure regulation and rapid absorption of amino acids in the body. Infant/baby formula normally comes in two forms: powdered formula and liquid formula. Vitamins, Proteins, carbohydrates, fatty acids, and antioxidants like beta carotene are the major nutrition ingredients in organic infant formula. In order to circumvent the complications like lactose intolerance, many babies are fed with standard formulas derived from soy milk only. Additionally, quick modernization, altering taste and preferences, spiraling disposable incomes, expanding western influence in the developing world, and augmenting the prevalence of breast cancer in women are factors set to drive the growth of the Global Organic Infant Formula Market for the period 2022-2027.
