Many students, including college transfers, have an opportunity to be accepted on the spot to several colleges and universities. To be eligible for immediate admission decisions, students must bring their transcripts and, if available, their test scores. Some colleges may even offer admission to 11th graders. To save families hundreds of dollars, college application fees may be waived. Hundreds of thousands in grants and scholarships will be available to students on-site.

“We are honored and excited to partner with NCRF for the sixth consecutive year in this critically important event,” said Dr. Paul Gothold, San Diego County superintendent of schools. “Our mission is to make sure every child gets what they need and deserve and provide opportunities such as this to help our students thrive.”

“The San Diego County Office of Education has been our partner for over 6 years. Dr. Gothold, JCCS Executive Director Tracy Thompson and the SDCOE team are on a mission like NCRF to change trajectories of underserved students and it’s so exciting to be on this mission together,” says NCRF Founder and President Dr. Theresa Price.

This year’s 6th Annual San Diego Black College Expo™ is sponsored by US Army ROTC, Toyota, Comerica Bank, Union Bank and WSS.

There is no cost to attend but attendees are encouraged to register at www.ncrfoundation.org or to call 877-427-4100 for more information. Any donations to NCRF help the organization continue in its mission to support and connect underserved and underrepresented students to college, careers and beyond!
