Trending Adalimumab, Infliximab And Etanercept Biosimilars Market Trend

The brand-name versions of biosimilar drugs have high costs, which are now being replaced with biosimilar versions upon their patent's expiry. The cost of branded biological drugs has almost doubled in recent years. For instance, the cost of Humira, the top-selling drug, increased to more than $72,000 in 2020. The shift to low-cost biosimilar drugs is mainly because there are no clinically relevant differences in safety and efficacy between the biosimilars and the original biologics. The Danish health care system switched almost entirely to adalimumab biosimilars after the patent on the original adalimumab product, Humira, expired in October 2018. The switch to biosimilars led to an 82% decrease in costs for the medication.
