ISLE OF MAN, ISLE OF MAN, January 23, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Plush Throw Blanket Market Value and CAGR

Throw blankets, also known as decorative blankets, are small, lightweight blankets used for warmth or decoration. They are typically made of soft, plush materials such as fleece, wool, or synthetic fibers and are intended to be draped over furniture or used as a sleeping or lounging cover.

A 'plush' blanket is defined as one with rich fabric and a long, soft nap. The raised nature of a plush blanket creates a layer of air between you and the blanket's core fabric. Your body heat travels between the layers of soft fibers while you sleep, assisting in the maintenance of your core body temperature. Plush blankets are available in twin, twin XL, full, queen, and king sizes. The plush blanket market is expected to be worth $418.5 million in 2022 and grow at a CAGR of more than 5.6% through 2029.

Plush Throw Blanket Market Growth Drivers and Risks

There are several factors that can drive growth in the plush throw blanket market: Increasing demand for home comfort products: As people spend more time at home, they may be more likely to buy products that enhance their comfort and relaxation, such as plush throw blankets.

Increasing disposable income: People may be more likely to splurge on luxury items such as plush throw blankets as disposable incomes rise. Online shopping is becoming increasingly popular: The rise of e-commerce has made it easier for consumers to buy plush throw blankets online, which could drive market growth.

There are also a number of risks that could potentially hinder the growth of the plush throw blanket market: Economic downturns: A recession or economic downturn could lead to reduced consumer spending on non-essential items such as plush throw blankets. Competition from cheaper alternatives: Plush throw blankets may face competition from cheaper, lower-quality alternatives, which could limit their market growth.
