

Penelope Smith of Animal Talk to be Featured on Close Up Radio

NEW RIVER, ARIZONA, UNITED STATES, January 24, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

For millions of us who love our pets deeply we spoil them any chance we get. From buying them fancy outfits, pushing them in strollers, feeding them organic foods, buying homes with them in mind, throwing them birthday parties, and even transforming them into pet influencers with thousands of followers on social media, our fur babies are our everything. They deserve it all because they bring us so much joy, peace, laughter, and love. So, wouldn't it be wonderful to understand what they are actually thinking or trying to tell us? The great news is by seeking out highly qualified professionals we can learn to telepathically communicate with all animals. In fact, it's one of the best things we can do to transform our special bond and make life even better for you and your beloved four-legged friend.

Penelope Smith is one of the most highly regarded sought after animal communicators and pet psychics in the world. She is now retired from her telepathic work, but through her publications and teaching, she is helping other aspiring animal communicators as well as any individual who wishes to learn how to effectively communicate with animals. Penelope is also the author of Animal Talk: Interspecies Telepathic Communication, and When Animals Speak: Techniques for Bonding with Animal Companions, and Animals in Spirit: Our Faithful Companions Transition to the Afterlife.

"My work as animal communicator is about communicating with animals telepathically, both living and those who have crossed over, so I can convey their thoughts, feelings, and emotions to their people to bring more understanding and resolve problems. This two-way communication creates positive changes in animal behavior and an even stronger more loving connection and understanding between you and your animal friends. Animals generally do not lose awareness of their spiritual nature as humans often do. With their innate wisdom, they have so much to teach us."

As an example, let's say your pet seems unwell, an animal communicator can pinpoint exactly where they are feeling the pain or distress, making it easier for the vet to figure out the issue. Or perhaps if you are specifically administering some type of holistic modality like energy healing your pet can tell you whether or not it's actually making your fur baby feel better. Maybe you're caretaking stray cats and an animal communicator can help you gain their trust so you can spay or neuter them and hopefully find them loving homes. Penelope has even worked with local shelters to help facilitate much needed adoptions for our homeless pets. Among her many beloved pets she has had over her lifetime, many have been rescued from the rough streets. Although they have forgiving hearts, they need time to heal from trauma. Giving them much needed attention and affection is priceless.

Penelope's special link with animals and her intuitive heart of healing creates a positive ripple effect on everyone who connects with her work. Central to her work is helping people develop their own native intuitive abilities and telepathically communicate and expand with these loving energies.

Penelope also speaks with our beloved fur babies who have crossed over bringing much needed comfort and solace to pet parents struggling with unrelenting grief. She reassures us that our animals are not gone, they are on the other side alive and well and still with us in spirit guiding and watching over us. Penelope has found that every living being has their soul journey and together we are on a spiritual path to flourish in unconditional love.

“They'll show me beautiful fields and sunshine and things that they liked while they were here on Earth and the absolute joy they derived from being with us. They help us become enlightened beings of higher consciousness, wisdom, and eternal love.”

Penelope wholeheartedly encourages us to become better communicators and use our hidden intuitive gifts.

Although she is officially retired from practicing animal communication as a profession, she continues to help others learn and she accomplishes this through her amazing blog, books, audio recordings, and videos.

“It's a process, it's a journey. I learn from my animals and they learn from me. When people also learn how to telepathically communicate with their animal friends, they realize that on our journey in life we are here to help each other and that's a game changer.”

She says animals are wise beings who can teach us. But definitely they prefer, like all of us do, to be in harmony and in loving graceful relationships in their home lives.

In her interview with Jim Masters Penelope will make mention of books, audio recordings, and lectures and her wonderful approach to how we can develop an even better understanding of one another. You will be enlightened and inspired.

“Although many animals have been traumatized from abusive situations and need time to heal, unlike humans they don't dwell on the past. They will say 'that happened but now I'm here with you, so let's go for a walk and have fun.' They're comical, joyful, and keep us energized. It's can be very challenging living on Earth and that makes our bond even more comforting. They are here to be our companions, teachers, guides, and healers, and when we better understand them telepathically, we will live in even more joy and love.”

Close Up Radio will feature Penelope Smith in an interview with Jim Masters on Thursday January 26th at 3 p.m. EST
