The purchase will allow both companies to expand the territories in which they can serve customers, and significantly increase product offerings, covering needs from low to high voltage.

“Our acquisition of IER is consistent with our long-term goal to build a national provider in the custom electrical distribution industry. We welcome IER into the Chicago Switchboard family, and we look forward to working together to offer superior technical solutions to our current and future customers” said Roberto Ferranti, CEO of Chicago Switchboard.

Mike Wolf, IER President, added that, “it was clear since the beginning of our conversation with Chicago Switchboard that there was a strategic fit between the two companies. I’m excited for the next chapter, and I’m confident that combining IER and Chicago Switchboard will unlock greater and meaningful value for our customers”.
