NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATE, January 25, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Geographic Atrophy Market was valued at USD 37.8 Bn in 2023 and is projected to reach USD 126.41 Bn by 2031, at a CAGR of 11.6%.

Geographic Atrophy (GA) is a progressive degeneration of the retina that results in the loss of central vision. The market for GA treatment is driven by several factors, including the increasing prevalence of age-related macular degeneration (AMD), a leading cause of GA, as well as the emergence of new treatments and technologies.

One major driver of the GA market is the aging population. As the population ages, the number of people with AMD and GA is expected to increase, leading to increased demand for treatments. Another important driver is the development of new treatments for GA, such as anti-VEGF therapy and gene therapy. These treatments have been shown to be effective in slowing the progression of GA and preserving vision, which is expected to drive market growth. In addition, advances in technology, such as the development of new diagnostic tools and imaging techniques, are also expected to drive market growth. These technologies allow for earlier and more accurate diagnosis of GA, which can lead to earlier treatment and better outcomes. Overall, the increasing prevalence of AMD and the emergence of new treatments and technologies are expected to drive growth in the GA market in the coming years.
