No matter where a client is located they know they can always rely on BCA to provide a mental health professional they can trust.”

Andrea Bryman, Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and Founder of BCA

With more than 25 years of experience in the reproductive health industry, “The fertility industry continues to grow leading to an increase in the demand for mental health services, yet there appeared to be a shortage of trained clinicians in many locations,” says Andrea Bryman, Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and Founder of BCA. “To combat this increasing problem, I wanted to create a national team that would provide a uniform method of evaluating and reporting consistent with the same level of expertise and detail that our clients have come to expect from us. No matter where a client is located they know they can always rely on BCA to provide a mental health professional they can trust.”

Features and benefits of our expanded team include:

- Infertility-focused mental health professionals licensed in all 50 US states
- All BCA clinicians are trained, mentored, and supervised to the highest industry standards and are members of the American Society for Reproductive •Medicine and the Society for Ethics for Egg Donation and Surrogacy.
- Every report is reviewed by a second trained clinician after the session is completed, ensuring all patients are thoroughly assessed.
- BCA’s assessments and consultations are offered in seven different languages - English, Spanish, Mandarin, Hebrew, Urdu, Hindu, and Punjabi - to allow for maximum accessibility for both our patients and providers.
