With a master's degree in financial markets from the prestigious BME University and a wealth of trading experience accumulated since 2008, José has established himself as a leading figure in the industry.

José is the CEO and co-founder of TradingPRO, a trading firm that has consistently beaten the benchmark for the last four consecutive years. He is committed to achieving the same level of success for the next 30 years, an accomplishment only a select few have attained.

José's expertise and knowledge of the financial markets have earned him a reputation as a respected industry thought leader. He regularly shares his insights and strategies through writing for prominent media outlets such as Investing.com, Finanzas.com, GNDiario, Libre Mercado, and Americano Media, as well as appearing on TV and radio through collaborations with Intereconomia. He counts trader Mark Minervini and investor Stanley Druckenmiller as his biggest industry role models.

With a focus on Wyckoff, Elliott, and volume trading strategies, José's favorite financial instruments include the Nasdaq-100, gold, and Bitcoin. He has traded from some of the most exotic locations in the world, including Ibiza and Bali. To de-stress after a long day of trading, he turns to sports. On average, he opens around 5 to 10 positions per week.

FXGlobe is honored to have José on board and is confident that his contributions will bring immense value to FXGlobe and its clients. With his guidance and expertise, traders and investors can look forward to navigating the financial markets with greater confidence and success.
