

Keith Radmall Announces the Release of His Book 'Journey Through Folding-Space'

TOMAH, WISCONSIN, USA, January 26, 2023

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The future is not something to envisage. The future is something to build. Keith Radmall invites his readers to a voyage of the future through his book 'Journey Through Folding-Space'. "No hope for the human race, no hope for the planet, may the hope of the future protects us" is the main concept of this book. The book is about the memories of a time traveler and the Covid-19 pandemic.

An excerpt from the book:

"Sitting around a warm fire in the desert on a clear evening on planet Nepatus. I am watching a massive sand storm coming towards me. I have decided I do not want to remain on the planet any more. So I set the directional finder on the Orbital to 'lasting evolvement'. Then step outside to watch the storms arrival... The Orbital dose not leave, so forging towards the time machine I step inside an ask the read-out why, it reads! I am not leaving without you; I shall endeavor to take you home."

When asked about his inspiration in writing the book, Keith answers, "I wanted to try and change my memories into a book. I hope the readers will find it exciting and understand what I have written."
