Her new song HOLY WATER available to listen HERE is expected to do no different. With Holy Water being teased on the TikTok platform Mason is already reaching over 1.1 million views on one of her most anticipated new singles.

Mason says " I wrote Holy Water to expose a type of person who hides behind the veil of religion to hide their greed and manipulation. The song is not about religion but about the type of person who use religion for their own personal gain but in a negative way, twisting words, to make themselves more powerful. There are people out there who preach about love and compassion and do some of the most hurtful things behind closed doors. I wrote this song to open that door a bit and shed some light on the hypocrisy that myself and many others have had to witness."

While this is one of Mason's most powerful songs her voice invites you in to take a ride with her on this journey of personal redemption.

Mason will release more new music with an EP that is expected in April. You can follow her HERE
