Kirb's passion for the music industry

started when he was just 14 years old, and he has since been tenaciously pursuing his dream. Luxury Living Music's launch marks a major milestone in Kirb's journey, as he bought out his former business partner and composer, giving the company sole ownership of Supply & Demand Worldwide Publishing's catalog. The acquisition includes 100% of the compositions and 50% of the full songs previously owned by Supply & Demand Worldwide Publishing.

Kirb, the music executive behind Luxury Living Music, continues to bring his passion for music to life through his production placements. Kirb recently collaborated with rapper Stitches on two of his hit songs, "Mexico" featuring Kevin Gates and "Vegas" with Popek. Kirb's most memorable moment came when his hit beat "Stitches Brick in Yo Face" was featured on Comedy Central's South Park. The placement showed Kirb the impact of his music and the love and respect he received from the show's creators. With this experience in mind, Kirb is eager to grow Luxury Living Music's holdings by purchasing more music and adding talented writers and composers to the roster.
