Ambulatory Services Market

Ambulatory services are medical care provided on an outpatient basis rather than in a hospital or other facility. They are typically offered in settings such as physician and other healthcare professional offices, hospital outpatient departments, ambulatory surgical centres, specialty clinics or dialysis or infusion centres, and urgent care clinics. They aid in the provision of personalised care to patients, the reduction of hospital stays, the saving of time for both patients and healthcare professionals, and the reduction of medical bills. Ambulatory care services nowadays include emergency visits, rehabilitation visits, and phone consultations.
