All you need for your coaching associates under one roof platform for coaching, mentoring and consultancy business to grow online easily. It has announced the launch of a new enterprise platform for coaching organisations and corporate teams of coaches/mentors.

Delenta started as a simple social experiment in 2018, took on a life of its own and became a fully fledged tech startup over time, with an awesome community of coaches, mentors and tutors all operating inside a business model that focuses on social change, and sharing our knowledge with local and global communities.

In 2020, Sam was reached out to by coaches and solopreneurs requesting a solution to address the time & money that was being spent on various different technologies to run their coaching businesses. As a result, the company decided to introduce an affordable subscription model and build a simple but effective all in one digital solution to help coaches run and scale their business. The goal of this model was to empower coaches and mentors to build and scale their coaching businesses online using a single digital platform where they do not have to pay for multiple systems to manage or scale their operations. This was done by introducing a unified coaching management platform, which would help to build a community of users and provide the tools and resources needed for coaches and mentors to succeed.

Delenta has always been driven by the belief that the world can and should be a better place. The company's founders envision a future where coaching and mentoring skills are taught in schools all over the world, so that the remarkable, life-changing results of these services can be shared by everyone, not just a small number of privileged individuals and organisations.

The Delenta Enterprise platform simplifies the coaching process by providing a single platform for streamlined operations and essential analytics. This new platform offers organisations a comprehensive view of all their coaching activities, allowing for easy access for customers to resources and services, leading to improved customer outcomes.

Delenta's Enterprise platform seeks to address the key pain points of coaching organisations and corporates, including:
