Home to nine holes that play along either the Intracoastal Waterway or Cherry Grove Inlet, Tidewater is Myrtle Beach's most scenic layout. Players never forget the quartet of holes that play along Cherry Grove, including the par four fourth hole, a dogleg left many consider to be the Myrtle Beach area's best two-shotter.

Tidewater, the first layout ever named the best new public course in America by Golf Digest and Golf Magazine, has been regarded as one of Myrtle Beach's premier experiences since its 1990 opening. The course has appeared on various top 100 lists, but Tidewater's most crucial rating panel is the golfers traveling across America to enjoy the acclaimed layout.

Tidewater enjoys an average ranking of 4.9 (out of 5), according to users of GolfPass, Golf Channel's travel portal.

In a review titled "I can see why this is a MUST PLAY in the MB area," SCGolfer369 wrote:

"Yes, this is my first time playing this course, but even if I've played here 5 times, I would still say the same thing. The marsh views from some of the holes are the best in the area, hands down. The course was in GREAT SHAPE, fairways and greens."

With the spring season rapidly approaching, Tidewater's tee sheet is filling quickly as golfers relish playing one of the best courses in Myrtle Beach and all of South Carolina.
