Emergen Research

The global patient temperature monitoring market size is expected to reach USD 5.85 Billion in 2030 and register a steady revenue CAGR of 6.4% during the forecast period, according to latest analysis by Emergen Research. Growing population as well as increasing occurrence of infectious diseases is a major factor driving market revenue growth. The world's population is expected to grow by over 2 billion individuals during the next 30 years, from 8 billion presently to 9.7 billion in 2050, with a peak of around 10.4 billion in the mid-2080s. Foodborne diseases, notably Campylobacteriosis, have a huge impact, hence approximately one in ten individuals fall ill each year and 33 million healthy life years are lost. During the course of many infectious diseases, body generates fever. As a result of growing worldwide population and prevalence infectious illnesses, there is a greater need for accurate patient temperature monitoring.
