Treasure & Shipwreck Recovery, Inc.(OTC: BLIS), is a Shipwreck Treasure Recovery and Asset Acquisition Company with ongoing and future sites for the search and recovery of priceless treasure and artifacts from historic shipwrecks off the shores of Florida and throughout the Caribbean at known, proven, treasure sites.

BLIS has taken on Kane Fisher of the Fisher Family as Operations Manager, and has paired with other partners with ongoing productive and rich treasure finds off the Coast of Florida, as well as other sites at other select locations around islands and locals throughout the Caribbean. BLIS has already had many successes in on-site locations as well as gathering very valuable artifacts as holdings. BLIS is pairing with the best of all proven sites, permitted, or under Admiralty claims as partners to not only recover the treasure, but as well BLIS has been making progress on a treasure recovery gaming app, and an ongoing reality series for television.

□ BLIS Announces New Season, Recovery, First Revenues, and Plans

On February 8th BLIS announced what the company expects to be a new season of successful treasure recovery and expansion of the operations to four new treasure wreck sites. The operations will include the prior crew and operations in the current treasure-laden shipwreck area, which was greatly successful last season, and a new expedition to an expanded area to the north for as many as four new treasure shipwrecks outside State of Florida waters through a new vessel and crew. In addition, BLIS has its first revenues, through the sale of treasure, as well as to announced expanded projects in NFTs and Game development plans as well.

BLIS has had two successful seasons of treasure recovery through contracted partners and crews on the East Coast of Florida in an area commonly referred to as the "Treasure Coast" with the recovery of treasure being made and awaiting distribution after clearance with the state and partners. Such recoveries when distributed expected to be very large in monetary and historical value. BLIS has also had its first commercial sales of treasure holdings and will make an announcement of such income shortly.

BLIS has a new shipwreck treasure area with researched and found treasure wreck sites off the East Coast of Florida, which consist of four proven identified wrecks of suspected treasure-laden vessels from the period from 1500's to mid-1600s. These are outside of the three miles of State of Florida waters, meaning no state permits are required, and BLIS will own exclusively through Federal Admiralty claims when filed with additional artifacts and BLIS will claim ownership.

BLIS is building out crew and vessel plans to work in this new area for this season and the future. BLIS intends to operate through a second crew and recovery vessel off of Cape Canaveral, Florida. Since it is outside the State of Florida waters, BLIS will not be subject to permitting and will lay claim to such wreck sites, which locations were gained through the work of a contracted partner over decades of work, diving, and surveying. Such vessels are suspected treasure-laden vessels, with potentially hundreds of millions of dollars a piece on board, of suspected gold, coins, and silver along with many other valuable artifacts.

With two expanded operations, treasure salvage and now BLIS is going to be ready to announce the near future of NFT projects and gaming, all of which is being developed with a new partnership which is well down the road as well," stated Craig A. Huffman, President of BLIS. "Stand by for much of this to be announced. More on the new operations for recovery, the NFT project as well as gaming and sales of treasure which we just started."

Current Operations and Planned

Three Wrecks have been initially worked and will be worked, which have constantly yielded valuable artifacts, on an ongoing basis, while dozens of others will be surveyed at that location. All expeditions will be filmed for publicity, and for future television rights and production by partners in the industry.

Amount of Treasure and Shipwrecks

It's estimated that, beneath Earth's waters, 3 million undiscovered shipwrecks exist. Treasure & Shipwreck Recovery (TSR) has access to decades of research and proven wreck site targets, and will be exploring, and salvaging targeted ones. From 1500 to 1900, some 400 years, fleets of Spain, English, France and Pirates, plied the Caribbean bringing massive amounts of treasure, in gold, silver, emeralds, jewelry and artifacts. Every year, probably dozens to hundreds of such vessels sunk for numerous reasons, filled with treasure. Treasure Shipwreck and Recovery has the inside track on adventure to find some of these riches. More gold lies in ships on the ocean floors than exist in all the holdings of all the countries of the world.

With a treasure search and recovery fleet ready to explore and salvage numerous known locations of 200 to 400 year old shipwrecks from the Spanish Galleon, English, French and Pirate days to recover treasure of gold, silver, jewelry and antiquities. TSR has gained significant value in treasure, sites, and partnerships for its plan, game and television series.

TSR has acquired rights to world class shipwreck search and recovery vessels to carry out the search and expeditions we will be conducting.

Gaming and Television

TSR intends to become a worldwide set of media brands for adventure, treasure and fulfilling the dream of everyone who ever wanted to have the adventure of a lifetime. TSR has an existing gaming development relationship for an envisioned for an App game based on treasure hunting, and a television series will be worked during the next year. Constant filming of crew work and recovery will be published of ongoing operations via social media.
