Essential oil is long-lasting because it doesn't oxidise, become rancid, or degrade under high pressure. Because of this property, it can be used in many skin care products including moisturizers, facial cleansers and scar and stretch mark minimisers. It can also be used in hair care products such as conditioners, detangling creams and hair regrowth products.

Essential oil also contains many vitamins and minerals such as vitamin E and B complex and silicon. It also contains chromium and copper. It is also used in many pharmaceutical products to treat sores and burns. Leading companies invest in R&D to create innovative, cost-effective technologies that will ensure an ongoing supply of oil resources.
