Dante White, CEO of Oppuous, A DotCom Magazine Exclusive Interview

Oppuous is a one stop marketplace for business tech solutions. Dante White has built a great platform that also has powerful nationwide engineering and cloud specialists to advise their clients!”

Andy Jacob

ABOUT Oppuous

Oppuous started off as a question, an idea, a thought, a wish, and ultimately a movement. Too many times we're told "you can't do this", "you'll never make it", or "that's dumb", etc. Oppuous believes that everyone should have an opportunity to reach their dreams and everyone has value. As such, Oppuous does its best to give back to the community by employing Veterans, the homeless, single parents, and the generally disenfranchised. We give back to the community because WE ARE THE COMMUNITY. I want to build a better world for my son and OUR WORLD. For too long capitalism has taken everything and given nothing.

Oppuous was created for business owners small and large who are dissatisfied with having to buy software, hardware, and tech support services from multiple places, manage multiple contracts, and have purchased the wrong solutions. Oppuous is a one stop marketplace (like Amazon) for business tech solutions. Additionally we have nationwide engineering and cloud specialists to advise clients along the way. Oppuous provides on average 15% savings on solutions on average and hundreds of hours of saved time a year. Unlike buying all your solutions from every individual company. Oppuous makes buying technology simple, stress free, and efficient. You can even keep your existing relationships with the software manufacturers, we just add better customer service AND typically better pricing (even on existing installs).

Dante White joins other leading CEO's, founders, and thought leaders that have participated in this informative and popular interview show.
