Saw blades will see an increase in demand due to the growing furniture industry. The saw blades are used to cut and shape wood in furniture making. The furniture market is expected to grow due to the increasing demand for luxurious interiors. This will increase demand for power tools such as saw blades. Due to rising living standards, decorative interiors and furniture are becoming more popular. This is driving up the demand for saw blades with high-quality cutting capabilities and products that have a premium finish. Saw blades market is expected to continue to grow as new house construction and remodelling/renovation activities increase across the globe.

The industry's growth is expected to be supported by technological advances in saw blades over the forecast period. A table saw stops instantly when it comes in contact with a finger. To detect and monitor the finger, the saw stop system uses an electrical signal. The signal changes as the finger comes in contact with the blade because the human body is conductive. The signal shift causes the device to insert an aluminum brake into the blade via a spring. This allows the saw wheel's stop in 5 milliseconds. The saw blade is not at risk of making contact with the next person due to its angular motion.
